

Cms 2000 solar inverter manual

The CMS 2000 is a true sine wave inverter, operating from a PV solar array power source (DC) and generates 240VAC, 50Hz current output for direct connection for the power grid. The CMS 2000 is proven to be an excellent PV inverter and as such is able to convert the maximum power from any PV panel (MPPT). Due to its advanced

Check short-circuit current of the PV string. The total short-circuit current of the PV string should be less than the inverter's maximum DC current. High voltages exist when the PV panel is exposed to the sun. To reduce risk of electric shock, avoid touching live components and treat connection terminals carefully.
