

Outer wilds escape solar system

Recently I've found my now favorite Outer Wilds wallpaper: outerwilds subreddit - The complete solar system. Unfortunately, the original is in a widescreen only format and my monitor is 16:9. So I decided to fire up PaintDotNet and do some changes: Changed the image to 16:9 format Completed the missing parts of the sun

There are several different endings to Outer Wilds. Some of them can only be accomplished by exploring and learning as much as possible about the history of the Solar System, and others are cleverly hidden and must be discovered. The Eye of the Universe ending is the intended ending of the game and is achieved by removing the Advanced Warp Core from the Ash Twin Project ...

The Sun is the center of the Solar System and the celestial body which all other astronomical bodies orbit. The Sun is a large main sequence star at the center of the Solar System which begins each loop as a standard yellow star. As the time progresses in the loop, the Sun ages and grows. At 22 minutes into the loop, the sun explodes in a violent supernova, with the cycle ...

Because the Outer Wilds successfully consumed all of my time for over two weeks, until I finished it, I've got an idea to do art from it. Specifically, I'm thinking of creating a nomai solar system map using the nomai symbols for the various solar system objects*, and embroidering it on to black fabric, maybe using glow-in-the-dark thread, but it's a bugger to work with.

I encourage anyone who hasn't yet experienced Outer Wilds to dive into its rich solar system, and for those who have, to share the adventure with others. Watching a friend navigate the game for the first time offers a fresh perspective and a chance to relive the awe-inspiring moments that make Outer Wilds truly unforgettable.
