Colorsound Power Boost 9v limited edition "Aussie" model made specially for "The Australian Pink Floyd". This special model has a master volume, LED and way better control over the sparkly clean and overdriven tones before hitting complete fuzz saturation.

I believe it was originally sold under the name "Power Boost". modman [img] Please, support freestompboxes on Patreon for just 1 pcb per ... I was on a vacation in England and ventured into Sola Sound shop, somewhere in London. I had to choose between the Tonebender and this box; you know which one I chose. ... C-sound used different ...

Information on the Colorsound Overdriver and Power Boost . HISTORY - Macaris Musical Exchange is the longest running music instrument retailer in central London. Their sister company was Sola Sound, creators of the legendary Tone Bender fuzz, among other classic pedals. Around 1969-1970 Sola Sound launched their Colorsound line of effects pedals and the 18v ...

Anthony Macari (Colorsound) As our 50th anniversary draws near, we proudly present the 18v POWER BOOST (TM) made by Mr Stuart Castledine for Sola Sound .. It's great to be involved with yet another great British builder and especially Stu who seems to know this circuit better than anyone on the planet.

The Nucleus Vintage Boost is a clone of the Colorsound Power Booster, a transistor-based boost/drive pedal with 2-band tonestack that was first sold in 1970 by the Macaris music store in London. The Power Booster ran at 18V using two batteries in series.

The Plasma is a clone PCB for the Colorsound Overdriver and Power Boost, two nearly-identical circuits that serve different functions. The Power Boost came first, powered by two 9-volt batteries for 18v operation. It had a transistor-based Baxandall tonestack along with a gain control.

This is the fourth Colorsound Power Boost or Overdriver build I've done. First was the Aion Plasma (9v Overdriver), then the Aion Nucleus (18v Power Boost), then the Madbean MeatQlaw. As I mentioned in the MeatQlaw writeup, when applying the waterslide decal, I initially overlooked the fact that the PCB was designed for a 1590B enclosure, and applied the decal ...

The previous ThroBak Overdrive Boost version was a compact pedal, but it only had 3 dials and a single footswitch. The coolest derivation here is the Wall of Sound pedal with its separate independent boost footswitch and control - to go with the typical 4 Overdriver / Power Boost controls - Volume, Gain, Treble/High and Bass/Low.

Up to 4% cash back! The pedal itself needs little introduction - monstrous tone - shimmery glassy treble boost - huge bass boost then easing its way through crunchy overdrive into aggressive nastiness - how can anyone not LOVE that !?

Colorsound Overdriver: Colorsound / Sola Sound » preamp / clean boost pedal » ... Now we make the classic Orange Power Boost to sound the same as the original but in the Overdrive we've added an FET in the preamp stage which gives the pedal slightly more aggression and makes it particularly efficient when working with a valve amp.
